

Look What's Coming!

Spring is on its way, and so are some new programs.

PACT 360: Parents You Matter: Drugs/Alcohol, Your Teen and You. This program for parents will be presented in cooperation with GMMS and the PAC. Child care and pizza will be provided. Details forthcoming.

QPR: Question, Persuade, Refer: Suicide prevention Training for the community. This one hour training is available to any community group or group of residents for free. Appropriate for teens and adults.

SPEAKER Bob Anastas: founder of Students Against Driving Drunk. Bob is a powerful and motivating speaker. The topic is Check in to a Winning Life. Bring your teen or tween with you to this engaging night! Thursday April 3rd. Location and time to be announced.

Love and Logic Parenting Workshop: This parenting workshop has been highly praised by the parents who attended the first three sessions. In six sessions you develop the skills to end the power struggles with your kids, build a positive and loving relationship, while teaching them to be responsible humans who understand that actions have consequences. The Spring session will begin in March. Registration for this session will be open February 1, 2014.

Y.E.S. Youth Employment Service: Our Y.E.S. program helps connect local youth interested in earning some extra money with area residents who are looking for some help. From babysitting to yard clean up, we help facilitate connections between our youth and residents. The youth application is available on our website. Call AnneMarie Cox for more information!
